This notice describes how your health information may be used and disclosed and how you can get access to this information. Please review it carefully.

Yes I Doula understands that health information about you and your health care is personal. We are committed to protecting health information about you. We create a record of the care and services you receive from us. We need this record to provide you with quality care and to comply with certain legal requirements.

For Treatment Payment or Health Care Operations, Federal privacy regulations let health care providers who have direct treatment relationships with the patient/client use or share the patient/client's PHI without the patient's written authorization, to carry out the health care provider's own treatment, payment or health care operations. This means we may share your protected health information (PHI) for the treatment activities of any health care provider. This too can be done without your written authorization. For example, if a health care provider were to consult with another licensed health care provider about your condition, we could use and share your PHI to assist the health care provider in diagnosis and treatment of your condition.

YOUR RIGHTS

- Get an electronic or paper copy of your doula care record. You can request a copy through your secure SimplePractice client portal or by contacting us. We will provide a copy or summary, usually within 30 days of your request. We may charge a reasonable, cost-based fee.
- Ask us to correct your record if you think it is incorrect or incomplete. We may say no, but we'll tell you why in writing within 60 days.
- Request confidential communication. You can ask us to contact you in a specific way (e.g., secure portal messages only, by text, or to a different mailing address). We will say yes to all reasonable requests.

- Ask us to limit what we use or share. You can ask us not to use or share certain information for treatment, payment, or operations. We are not required to agree, and we may say no if it affects your care. If you pay in full out-of-pocket for a service, you can ask us not to share that information with your health plan; we will say yes unless a law requires us to share it.
- Get a list of disclosures. You can ask for an accounting of the times we've shared your information for six years prior to when you ask, who we shared it with, and why. We'll provide one accounting a year for free; we may charge a reasonable, cost-based fee for additional requests within 12 months.
- Get a copy of this notice at any time on our website. Even if you agree to receive it electronically, you may request a paper copy from our office.
- Choose someone to act for you. If you have given someone medical power of attorney or if someone is your legal guardian, that person can exercise your rights and make choices about your information. We will confirm their authority before acting.
- File a complaint if you feel your rights are violated. You can contact us using the information above. We will try to make things right. You can also file a complaint with your health plan or the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, Office for Civil Rights. We will not retaliate against you for filing a complaint.

YOUR CHOICES

For certain health information, you can tell us your choices about what we share. If you have a clear preference for how we share your information in the situations below, tell us and we will follow your instructions.

- Share information with your partner, family, birthing support people, or others involved in your care (with your permission).
- Share information in a disaster-relief situation to help notify or locate you.
- Contact you for appointment reminders and follow-up via SimplePractice secure portal, phone, text, or email (as you prefer).

If you cannot express your preference (for example, if you are unconscious), we may share information if we believe it is in your best interest. We may also share information when needed to lessen a serious and imminent threat to health or safety.

We will never share your information for these purposes unless you give us written permission:

- Marketing purposes.
- Sale of your information.
- Sharing psychotherapy notes, unless required by law.
